As part of the provincial government's plan to move mental health services into the community, a team of mental health workers will begin working in Kitsilano this month.

The Kitsilano Community Care Team will begin accepting referrals on February 15. Six community mental health workers have been selected to join Co-ordinator Helga Hicks, senior worker Marsha Enomoto, psychiatrist Hugh Parfitt and secretary Margaret Findlay.

The Team, which will operate from 2144 West 12th Avenue, is already planning an Open House to meet citizens of the Kitsilano area. Watch for an announcement.
